

Dear Sir or Madam

In many countries the coronavirus restrictions are being relaxed step by step, allowing us to cautiously go back to our daily routines. Nevertheless, working from home, attending virtual events, and learning online will be an integral part of our lives for some time. We hope with actuvew we can provide you with the actuarial know-how and exchange of expertise you need for your professional life. On that note, we are very happy to welcome a new content partner that will share insights from a different perspective: the Impact Insurance Facility of the International Labour Organization (ILO).

ILO joins actuvew as Content Partner

The International Labour Organization's Social Finance Programme works with the financial sector to facility to the ILO's Decent Work Agenda. The Impact Insurance Facility contributes to the Social Finance agenda by collaborating with the insurance industry, governments and partners to realize the potential of insurance for social and economic development. The team leader of the Impact Insurance Facility, Craig Churchill, tells us about the reasons to join the actuvew community:

actuvew: Which impact do you expect from the cooperation with actuvew?

Craig Churchill: Over the years, we have amassed a large database of insurance professionals. We communicate with them regularly, sending monthly newsletters, occasional emails of Emerging Insights and event notifications, but we are interested in expanding our audience to reach additional people. We hope that the collaboration with actuvew will help achieve that objective. Anyone interested in subscribing can sign up on our website: www.impactinsurance.org. We also occasionally have job openings as well – for example, right now we are looking for Impact Insurance Fellows. These are typically mid-career professionals who are interested in using their expertise to support insurance projects in developing countries. Now, we are looking for four or five persons to work on innovative projects in Africa and Asia.

Read the full interview on the actuvew website.

Latest webcast from actuvew partner RGA

RGA, one of the world's largest life and health reinsurers and actuvew's platform sponsor, regularly publishes webcasts on current topics on actuvew.

Now online: "Distributed Ledger and Insurance"

Presented by Mitch Ocampo
VP, Emerging Solutions, RGAX

As data shows, Distributed Ledger Technology (DLT) will transform systems, platforms and applications at a significant rate over the next few years. More specifically, the Banking Financial Services and Insurance industry is leading adoption with data privacy and consumer protection at the core of it all. "The question for executives is no longer 'Will DLT work?' but 'How can we make DLT work for us?'"

In this video, Mitch Ocampo, VP of Global Emerging Solutions at RGAX, shares a solid foundation around the emerging technology, real use cases, and how RGAX's approach to emerging technology is built to create an interested community by offering market education and training that furthers thought-leadership to support the ever-evolving needs within the insurance industry.

View webcast

powered by RGa

New content from actuvew partner msg life

msg life, one of the leading IT specialists for insurers and an actuvew premium content partner, presents the following recorded session on actuvew:

Now online: "Artificial Neural Networks Basics – Part 1 Forwardpass"

Presented by Dr. Stefan Nörtemann
msg life

Machine learning methods are also becoming more and more important in the insurance industry. A widespread and in practice very successful method of machine learning uses so-called artificial neural networks.

In the two part lecture we would like to give a first rough overview of the structure of an artificial neural network. We don't care about applications or implementations, but above all about the idea and the mathematics behind it. The first part is about the structure and the basic components of an artificial neural network. Using a simple example, we show how a neural network processes an input and generates an output.

View webcast

Last Call for the EAA's Data Science & Data Ethics Conference

Initially planned as an in-person event, the European Actuarial Academy (EAA) is very happy to broadcast its very first e-Conference "Data Science & Data Ethics" on 29-30 June 2020 on actuvew. The program combines keynote speeches from well-known experts with food for thought and selected talks from professionals through a call for papers.

As a registered user of actuvew, the EAA e-Conference can be joined for free. If you sign up to the event with the EAA in advance, you will also get access to the four exclusive live web sessions of the keynote speakers. The registration is completely free of charge but necessary to get access to the webinar platform for the mentioned keynotes. Find all information about the event and the option to register here.

Also check out the event's trailer.

Find actuvew on every channel

As with any project, actuvew is constantly growing. We strive to improve our service to you, the users, every day by offering interesting new content, special events, and access to an expanding international community that connects you with actuarial colleagues across borders.

Social media is essential to this mission, which is why actuvew has channels on all the relevant networks. You can follow us on Twitter and read the latest news on our company feeds on LinkedIn and XING. There are also groups under the actuvew name on LinkedIn and XING to bring actuarial experts together. Here you can discuss the industry's major trends and topics with each other, or share recommendations on what to read and what to watch (e. g. on actuvew 😊). The forums are still in their infancy but with your help we hope to grow them into hubs of expertise and exchange!

- actuvew group on XING
- actuvew group on LinkedIn

Various videos from Ireland

During the last few weeks the Society of Actuaries in Ireland (SAI) has been an active contributor to the actuvew archive and has published various videos on different topics such as ESG and reporting in Life Insurance, the effects of COVID-19, and professionalism.

"SAI Wider Fields Competition: Prize for the Creative Use of Actuarial Skills"

Darragh Pelly (Wider Fields Committee, SAI), Brian Donnellan (Engagement & Communications, SAI)

"Investing & COVID19 – An International Perspective"

Paul Jackson (Invesco), Frank O'Regan

"Putting the Life Co Balance Sheet under the ESG Microscope"

Ross Evan, Clarence Er, Liam Mohan (all Hymans Robertson's Life & Financial Services), Mike Claffey (FSAI)

"Investing & COVID19 – An Irish Perspective"

Lenny McLoughlin (Irish Life Investment Managers), Frank O'Regan (SAI Finance & Investment Committee)

"Reporting Compliance with the new With-Profits Operating Principles"

David O'Connor, Liam O'Keeffe, Viviana Pascoletti

Check out all SAI videos here.

aoc2020: Program planning under way

Two days ago the Call for Presentations for actuvew's first own online event, the aoc2020, has ended with 20 submissions by actuaries from 6 different countries.

Within the next weeks we will screen these proposals carefully and bring them together with about a dozen other presentations and keynotes we have acquired from partners within the industry and beyond. Stay tuned for the release of the program themed "future | actuary" in July here on the event page.

Do you know how to become an actuspeaker?

In order to continually expand the offerings on actuvew, the platform invites all actuaries and other experts to present their actuarial expertise in a specific topic as a recorded session and publish it as a video on actuvew. The actuspeaker guidelines give you tips on which technical options are possible and how to produce your own video.

If you would like to contribute, please send your proposal with the title, a brief description of your presentation (abstract), and some personal information about you and your affiliation to contact@actuvew.com.

And the best part: All speakers providing content for actuvew also get access to the full content uploaded in the corresponding year.

We hope you enjoyed this month's update! If you have any suggestions or questions, please don't hesitate to contact us at contact@actuvew.com.

actuvew team RGa, Platform Sponsor